

Songs for the Sign

St. Luke Parishioner and Troop 436 Boy Scout Garrett Arndt has taken on the task of replacing the St. Luke Parish entrance sign for his Eagle Scout service project. To raise the necessary funds, Garrett is hosting an intimate evening with national recording artist Chris Trapper taking place at St. Luke on May 31st at 7:30pm.

CHRIS TRAPPER is a storyteller. His words and music can best be described as an interesting blend of 1950's pop, 1990's rock and old-timey jazz with the ever-present under story of Chris' distinctive baritone. It's intricate power-pop with a compelling knack for telling everyday stories. Trapper's first foray in the music industry was as frontman of the critically acclaimed alt-rock band The Push Stars (Capitol Records). Over the past decade, Chris has become a modern day acoustic troubadour, performing over 150 dates a year as a headliner and sharing the stage with the likes of Colin Hay, Martin Sexton and John Prine.

As a singer/songwriter, Chris is most known for his original song This Time, the #1 selling song on the Grammy nominated soundtrack for August Rush (Robin Williams/Warner Bros Pictures). His music can best be described as lyrically driven roots-pop with a knack for telling everyday stories. The New York Times has called his work "classic pop perfection." Trapper's live show is a favorite among fans of acoustic music. His on-stage persona is warm and inclusive, his organic understanding of classic pop melody, infectious. Audience members seem to particularly appreciate the lighthearted moments he exudes. "His humble sense of humility is what makes Trapper's songs so strong...he makes you feel like you are the person he's singing about" says Popdose. Visit Chris' website at www.christrapper.com.
